

ATTACK

to a doctor's appointment at 5:30 p.m. when she noticed Billy Bob Bennett, 20, of 23680 Madison street, standing at the Hawthorne and 182nd street intersection.

Bad weather, an innocent-looking youth, and a woman with a little too much consideration were the circumstances responsible for what nearly happened.

Wants Beer
"Looks like there's gonna be a party," Bennett said after he'd been offered a ride. He had noticed a few bottles of beer which Miss Clark occasionally brought home to her crippled sister.

The 20-year-old youth repeated his remark three times. "Would you care for one?" Miss Clark finally felt forced to ask. Bennett helped himself immediately and gobbled up the beer promptly.

Attacks Woman
It was only a matter of a few minutes from the time Bennett had been picked up that he propositioned Miss Clark obscenely and tried to force his attentions on her.

The woman, who was driving all the while, tried to stop and force Bennett out of the car. Unsuccessful at this, she kept driving and disputing with him.

At one time Bennett shoved a sharp pencil, which felt like a weapon, into her.

Signals Police
The woman, who was approaching Torrance boulevard, tried frantically to think of a way to elude her attacker. When she saw the black and white colors of a police car she sounded her horn as hard as possible.

Sgt. Milse Hamilton heard the distress signal. He forced

16 Disposals Stolen From New Tract

Sixteen Wasteking kitchen pulverators, costing $56 each, did a neat disappearing act over the weekend from the new homes being constructed in the Victoria Gardens tract and not without some very capable help.

The Clark car over to the side of the road and booked Bennett for attempted rape.

Bennett, who couldn't raise $1500 bail, is in the county jail awaiting his arraignment today.

man assistance. In fact, it looks like an inside job, because whoever did it knew exactly where the caps were raised and again lower them after the job was done. This way the watchman's suspicions were not aroused since no windows were broken on the premises. Some good fingerprints were obtained, however.

Procedure
Whoever did it unlatched either the kitchen or bathroom window of the houses in question so that all he had to do was raise and again lower them after the job was done. This way the watchman's suspicions were not aroused since no windows were broken on the premises. Some good fingerprints were obtained, however.

Knew His Way Around
Lending weight to the belief that the robbery was an inside job is the fact that the thief knew exactly where the caps for the pulverators were. The caps, which are never installed until the houses are occupied, are moved from one storage garage to the next, as the plumbers move from one group of houses to the next. The garage from which the caps were stolen was just made the new storage garage a couple of days before the burglary. The caps were kept in cardboard containers. Each container has a serial number and warranty.
